

Four areas in city plan emphasized

Stressing the need for citizen input into the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission's 25-year city development plan, Planning and Zoning Commission chairman George Berenyi Thursday night enumerated four "top priority" items which he said demand the planning commission's "immediate attention."

Addressing a gathering of city officials and newsmen at the State Fair Restaurant, Berenyi said development of the "north neighborhood," schools and parks, the 16th Street "strip" and the central business district will be the commission's first concerns in enacting the plan.

The 25-year plan sets forth "only general guidelines," he said, the details of which must come from private citizens and interest groups.

Berenyi called the Thursday night gathering a "commencement exercise" for the plan, which outlines projections and development programs involving streets, housing, land use, economics and population in Sedalia.

The planning commission will hold three days of public hearings at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday in the council chambers to acquaint the public with the plan and to solicit suggestions.

Following next week's hearings, reports that "treat in detail particular neighborhoods and commercial areas of the city" will be drawn up, he said.

Some suggestions that have been made, Berenyi said, include a "north neighborhood plan" centering around the possible location of an elementary school at Hubbard Park and the construction of a "downtown boulevard" to help alleviate traffic congestion in the area.

The notion of an elementary school in Hubbard Park, Berenyi emphasized, "is not a specific proposal, but an example of what might be done in connection with possible re-development of this area of the city."

Berenyi said the commission has not yet conferred with school district officials, but indicated the group hopes to meet at appropriate times with them and other local citizens to further discuss the reports.

Ken Velharticky, planner-in-charge of the Commission, said pamphlets summarizing the development proposals will be available to the public "hopefully by Thanksgiving."

Mid-air collision kills 176 persons

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A British airliner and a Yugoslav charter jet carrying West German tourists collided at 35,000 feet near Zagreb today, officials said. All 176 persons aboard the planes were killed, according to doctors at the scene.

A witness among the first to arrive at the crash site said the body of one plane was burned out. He said bodies and luggage were scattered around the rubble. More than 30 ambulances and fire trucks went to the scene but found no one alive, he said.

The British plane carried a reported 54 passengers and nine crew members. A British Airways spokesman in New York said there was one American and one Canadian aboard the plane. However,

British Airways officials in London said there were at least two Americans and some Turkish nationals aboard.

The New York spokesman said it would be 12 to 24 hours before a passenger list was available.

The Yugoslav plane had 108 passengers and five crew members aboard, company officials said. Sources said most or all of them were West German tourists returning from vacations on the Adriatic coast.

The planes collided at 6:15 a.m. EDT about 15 miles northeast of Zagreb, Yugoslavia's second largest city and 230 northwest of Belgrade.

The planes were in an established air corridor over Yugoslavia utilized by all civilian planes, officials said. The corridor is under the control of the Zagreb traffic center.

The cause of the collision was not immediately known. Officials said an investigation was begun.

British Airways officials in London said Flight 476 was on a direct flight from London to Istanbul. The officials said the plane was a Trident 3 jetliner.

Reports here said the Yugoslavian plane was a DC9 belonging to the Yugoslav charter company Inex-Adria. The DC9 was flying between Split, Yugoslavia, and Cologne, West Germany.

In Cologne, officials said the Yugoslavian plane had been chartered by Kaufhof, a Cologne-based tourist agency.

The crash was the worst collision since July 1971, when an All-Nippon Airways Boeing 727 collided with a Japanese air force F86 over Morioka, Japan, killing 84 persons aboard the planes and 71 on the ground.

The most recent American air collision occurred in September 1969. Eighty-three persons died when an Allegheny Airlines DC9 hit a student pilot's plane at Shelbyville, Ind.

A spate of near-misses last year prompted the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration to order the installation of more modern air traffic control equipment and revise procedures for controllers.

The incidents also led the FAA to hasten plans for installing a computerized conflict alert system, which would issue warnings when aircraft within a four-to-five-miles sphere came too close.

An FAA spokesman here said the new system was in effect at all of the agency's 20 in-route traffic control centers in the United States by January of this year.

Industrial expansion announced

The impending location of a new company in Sedalia and the expansion of an existing local industry were announced Friday morning by Economic Development Director James Hamm.

Bear Industries Inc., a Virginia-based corporation which manufactures multipurpose silage wagons, running gear, gooseneck-type stock and flatbed trailers and bumper-hitch stock trailers, plans to begin production next January. Gregg Weaver, vice president and treasurer of the company, says his firm's products are designed for heavy-duty farm and ranch use.

Weaver, who recently moved here from Arlington, Va., currently has executive offices in the Securities Building, 1806 West 11th. Local businessman Don Carr, Route 1, founder and owner of Don Carr's Welding and Truck Service has transferred his assets to Bear Industries and will serve as vice president in charge of manufacturing.

The firm plans to acquire additional property prior to beginning manufacturing operations. No site has yet been announced.

The industrial expansion program will be undertaken by Missouri Pressed Metals, Inc., which plans to construct a 5,000 square foot addition to its present building on Alpha Lane. The addition will create 50 per cent more space, company president Norman Bankovich said. He could not predict Friday how many new jobs will immediately result because of the expansion. The firm presently employs between 25 and 30 persons.

Missouri Pressed Metals, originally known as Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc., manufactures powdered metal bearings, bushings and structural parts to the specifications of its customers across the country. The company built its original facility in 1973 after city voters approved an industrial revenue bond issue for the

Discussing disaster

Kenneth Frick, left, national director of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, grasps a sorry-looking cob of Pettis County corn as he talks with Paul Siegel, Florence. Frick toured central, northern and western parts of the state Thursday to get a first hand look at some of the 46 Missouri counties that seek federal disaster declaration status.

No doubt about it, ASCS official says

Kenneth Frick, national director of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), told about 30 area farmers here Thursday afternoon that the parched fields in the state "leave nothing to my imagination" and that a severe dry-spell does indeed exist here.

Frick spoke at the Municipal Airport after touring proposed disaster areas in the central, northern and western part of the state. He was accompanied by John Foster, Missouri director of the federal Farmers Home Administration (FHA) and state Agriculture Director James Boillot.

The farmers brought samples of their dried-out corn and soybeans for Frick to examine. He spoke within a few hundred yards of a brown-stalked cornfield rustling under a cloudless sky.

But it was after only his first stop of the tour in Boone County that Frick said it was "obvious" that the federal government would have to give positive consideration to Gov. Christopher Bond's disaster declaration requests.

Crop loss estimates from the state's third straight drought have risen more than $600 million as Bond Thursday sought federal disaster declarations for 10 more grain belt counties. The move came on the heels of a similar request last week on behalf of Pettis and 35 other counties.

Frick criticized a 1973 farm bill passed by Congress which he said was "inequitable" because it based federal disaster payments on an allotment system begun in 1959. The allotment system was initiated at a time when excess grain reserves in this country forced farm prices down and caused the federal government to restrict the amount of acreage a farmer could plant.

Frick concurred when the farmers told him that since that time, the federal government has encouraged them to plant from "fence-row to fence-row." When they followed the government's advice, the farmers told Frick, their subsequent crop yields, no matter how low per acre, were above a previously-calculated disaster yield based on just their allotted acreage. Thus many area farmers were not eligible for disaster loans.

Ford abortion views 'encourage' Catholics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic leaders met for more than an hour today with President Ford and announced afterward they were "encouraged" by his views on abortion but added: "This does not mean we are totally satisfied."

The President met with one Catholic cardinal, three archbishops, and two bishops.

A spokesman for the clergymen told reporters they were encouraged because "the President agrees on the need for a constitutional amendment" affecting abortion.

The same group met 10 days ago with Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and declared afterward they were "disappointed" by Carter's stand on abortion.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Thursday that Ford does not want a proposed constitutional amendment banning abortion but favors an amendment letting each state set its own policy on abortions.

Carter has been dogged by the abortion issue during his first week on the fall campaign trail. He does not want a constitutional amendment, although he says he is personally opposed to abortions and to using federal funds to pay for them through Medicaid.

Ford makes his first campaign sortie next Wednesday to his alma mater, the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. And both men are deep in preparation for the first of their three debates, in Philadelphia on Sept. 23.

On the Senate floor today, Sen. Lowell Weicker urged that the debates be opened to independent candidates, to be "afforded the same opportunity to present their views to the nation as are President Ford and Mr. Carter." He said it is a sad commentary that they are not.

At both the Carter and Ford meetings, the bishops declined to be photographed.

China mourns for Mao

TOKYO (AP) — In deep mourning over the death of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, China began today to pay somber tribute to the man whose loss leaves the world's most populous country without a leader worthy of his mantle.

A struggle for power appeared inevitable among the radicals and moderates who have been jockeying for leadership since Mao's health began an obvious decline earlier this year. He died Wednesday at age 82. The Peking government has not disclosed the cause of death.

The central committee of the Chinese Communist party issued an appeal for unity, and reports from China indicated the people were calm as they mourned their revolutionary leader.

"All papers devote the entire front page to a huge portrait of Chairman Mao Tse-tung bordered in black," the official Hsinhua news agency said today in a broadcast monitored here. It said newspapers used the banner headline: "Eternal glory to our great leader and teacher Chairman Mao Tse-tung."

Peking residents contacted by telephone said flags were at half-staff through the capital, nearly everyone was wearing a black armband, some people wept and large crowds gathered in the huge Tien An Men Square to put white flowers at a monument.

Written on the monument are Mao's words: "The heroes of the people are immortal."

"Peking is somber," one resident said by telephone, "but things are very much normal aside from what you would expect for the mourning of the chairman."

"People have severe expressions on their faces," a second resident said, "but there is no high emotion. We're all impressed by the calm atmosphere."

Chinese broadcasts were devoted to Mao's passing. A resident said the broadcasts told listeners to turn their grief into strength, to follow Mao's will to build a socialist system in China and to continue efforts for unity.

The Japanese newspaper Asahi quoted an aged Chinese as saying, "The most sorrowful moment has come. We have lost Chairman Mao. Premier Chou En-Lai and Marshal Chu Teh in one year. This year is the saddest for our country since its foundation."

Mao's body will lie in state in Peking's Great Hall of the People beginning Saturday. The mourning period will last until a memorial rally Sept. 18.

Proper pet care

Kevin Broadus, 624 West Fourth, waters his huge "pet rock" in his front yard while his wife, Les, watches. The couple purchased the 10-foot boulder to start a rock garden in their yard at Fourth and Harrison. Mrs. Broadus' father then surprised the pair with the pet rock sign. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

New church planned

East Sedalia Baptist Church members recently approved the construction of a new sanctuary, shown in the architect's sketch above, which will be located adjacent to the present sanctuary at 1019 East Fifth. Don Carver, chairman of the building committee, said construction will begin next spring, following selection of a contractor for the 12,400-square-foot sanctuary, which will be octagonal-shaped, the first of its kind in this area. Seating will be in circular fashion, with a capacity of 550. Gifts totaling $481,000 will be used to construct the church, which will be entirely on the ground level and will have no steps, a feature planned for the elderly and handicapped. The Rev. Milton Elmore is pastor of the East Sedalia congregation, which will move into its new facility about 1½ years after construction begins. Palmer and Kuehn and Associates of Kansas City were architects for the new church. The present sanctuary will be utilized by the church after it moves into the new sanctuary.

Religious outcasts discuss problem

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

They were the lonely ones, the outsiders. They had known rejection, separation, being cast out from mutuality with others. They spoke of it in mellowed terms in the perspective of time.

But they still knew its pain. It's an experience shared in varying degrees by countless people, old and young, the rich, poor, single, married, divorced, those who try to drown it in a bottle or with pills or by a leap into forgetfulness.

Recent studies indicate it's a wide and spreading malady in society.

But a group of persons who had known its hurts in special ways, who had been shut out and isolated because of opposition to them or their particular roles, discussed it at a incidents that raised barriers against female clergy, imprisoning them in "stereotyped patterns," blocking them "from our calling."

Theresa Hoover, a black woman and an executive of the denomination's woman's division, said that "every black child who survives, and certainly every black female child that survives has to always believe in the great possibility beyond the now." The church, she added, offers an inkling of that future of love beyond the pangs of separation and loneliness.

"For now we see in mirror dimly," went a Scripture passage read by Bishop Melvin Wheatley of Denver, Colo., and his wife, Lucille. "But then face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall understand fully, even as I have been fully understood."

recent unusual church gathering.

"I've never talked to anyone very much about how I felt during those days," said Hazel Decker of Jacksonville, Texas, who at one time had been spurned by her home church congregation. "The hurt was too deep, and the humiliation was so intense that I tried hard not to think of it myself."

She was among four Methodists, also including a black woman, a bishop and a woman minister, who described circumstances that cut them off from others. They spoke at a service at the Olivet Baptist Church in Portland, Ore.

The service, held in conjunction with the recent United Methodist General Conference, was sponsored by a "gay" caucus, of which some were present but none spoke of the condition that sets them apart from others.

"Too many persons turn their backs and walk away," went a litany led by Dr. Leigh Roberts, a University of Wisconsin professor of psychiatry.

The assembly responded: "Lord, forgive us for the pain that we inflict upon your servants."

Mrs. Decker told of a chain of incidents involving her support for black civil rights and opposition to the Vietnam war that turned her congregation against her. He unsuccessful effort to prevent the church from stopping its contributions to the National Council of

But she noted that Jesus experienced the epitome of that suffering when he cried from the cross, "My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?" However, Mrs. Decker, a gentle but firm-willed woman, herself continued the interdenominational contributions out of her own pocket, with approval of her bishop, even though her pastor had forbidden it, saying the congregation wanted no record of having paid.

Looking back, she said she "learned some truth that only pain and rejection can teach," namely that "if a person takes a stand it has to be for the right reason," and also that "the worst thing that can happen to a person in this life" is never to have a cause worth standing for alone.

As for those interdenominational contributions, despite opposition of pastor and church board, she hopes on her death to arrange for a fund to continue them from that congregation "in perpetuity." Bishop Jesse R. DeWitt of Wisconsin told how obligations and pressures of office tend to isolate him from others, and of the "tensions and struggles within me" both to fulfill the duties and avoid surrendering his own individuality.

The Rev. Jeanne Audrey Powers of New York City, an ordained Methodist minister told of patronizing the derisive

Mayor is main speaker at club meeting

Mayor Allen Hawkins addressed the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting Thursday at the Bothwell Hotel.

Hawkins discussed the priorities he has set for work in various areas, including community development and services, industrial development, improved police protection and parks and recreation.

The mayor said the industrial park should be ready for occupancy by the Centralia Container Corp. the first of November.

In the area of police protection, Hawkins said a training officer will be appointed soon. He said there may be some way to beef up police protection at night, when most crime occurs, in response to a question from the audience.

Jack Robinson introduced the mayor.

Stan Cox, a new lawyer in Sedalia, was a guest of Jim Rice.

Adolf Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf" while serving time in prison in 1924. The book's English title was "My Battle."

Expect 500 for camp-in

Some 500 campers are expected to gather on the Missouri State Fairgrounds here Sept. 17-19 for a "Camp-In With the Bishop."

Sponsored by The United Methodist Churches of Missouri, the camp meeting will feature Bishop Robert E. Goodrich Jr. The Rev. L. Bevel Jones III, pastor of First Methodist Church in Athens, Ga., will lead the campers, along with Bishop Goodrich, in worship services through the first such three-day camping spiritual. Jimmie Bass, Nashville, Tenn., a member of the General Board of Discipleship, will lead the singing.

The event is designed for the camper, however, many persons will be staying in nearby motels or driving to the camp-in each day. Facilities for campers requiring hook-ups, the tent camper and other units are available, according to the Rev. Ed. Neimeyer of the Sedalia District of the United Methodist Church, who is handling reservation requests.

Mr. Neimeyer said at least 500 persons are expected to attend the chuck wagon barbecue dinner at 6 p.m. Saturday, and even more are expected to attend the worship services Sunday.

Singing will be shared at 8 p.m. Friday, followed by worship services around a campfire at 9 p.m., led by Bass and the Rev. Jones.

Saturday's activities will begin at 8:30 a.m. with Bible study, led by the Rev. G. Hubert Neth of Warrensburg. Discussion groups, workshops and services will precede the barbecue, which will be followed by fellowship and square dancing.

Church school classes will be held at 9 a.m. Sunday, with Bishop Goodrich and Bass leading the 10:30 a.m. worship service. A chicken dinner will be held at 11:30 a.m.

The public is invited to attend, the Rev. Neimeyer urging everyone to participate.

Burial will be in the Versailles Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

Brothers bound over to Circuit Court on stealing charges

Two brothers were bound over to Circuit Court Thursday afternoon in Magistrate Court on amended felony charges of stealing property valued at over $50 in connection with the Jan. 12 theft of items from a rural Sedalia home.

Derwin Lynn McNeal, 18, 2302 East 16th, and Darrell Ray McNeal, 21, Route 1, Mora, are jointly charged with the theft of three guns from the Johnny M. Williams residence on Route 1. They had originally been charged with second-degree burglary and stealing.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said the two were arrested after his department recovered the three guns and some other items on Aug. 23.

The McNeals' bond was reduced from $3,500 to $2,500. They remain in the county jail in lieu of bond.

Democrats set meetings to make choices

The City Democratic Committee will hold two meetings next week, according to George Breeze, chairman, to elect a candidate for the City Council and to select committeemen and women.

City Democrats will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Mark Twain School to select a candidate to fill the vacant First Ward seat on the City Council. Mayor Allen Hawkins, who was elected to that post Aug. 3 to fill the unexpired term of former Mayor Jerry Jones, was re-elected to the First Ward seat in April of this year for his second two-year term.

Gary Dey, presently sales manager for David Malm Motors Ltd. and former interim Sedalia police chief, is termed a frontrunner for the Democratic nomination to succeed Hawkins. Kehde, manager of Dog N' Suds and a member of the Sedalia Concerned Citizens group, has been mentioned as the possible Republican nominee for the post. However, Republicans have not called a meeting to select a nominee. The council vacancy will be filled in the Nov. 2 general election.

A second meeting of City Democrats, called by Breeze Thursday afternoon, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Assembly Room in the Pettis County courthouse. The purpose of that meeting, Breeze said, would be to fill "about a half-dozen" vacant posts on the Democratic slate of committeemen and women. Those posts were not filled during the August primary election, he said.

firm. It began to operate under its present name in 1975.

Commenting on the expansion, Hamm said, "The expansion of Missouri Pressed Metals in Sedalia is important to strengthening and diversifying our industrial base. I am confident that Norm Bankovich and his company will continue to be a viable part of our manufacturing community."

New housing code for Sedalia is discussed

Several city officials met Friday morning in the Municipal Building with representatives of the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp. (MVHRDC) to discuss a proposed housing code which would establish guidelines to follow in the up-coming home improvements program to be undertaken through the Community Block Grant Development Program.

City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison and local block grant project director Tom Delph conferred with MVHRDC executive director Bob Schultz, carpentry foreman Jody Heck and another MVHRDC representative, Dee Nicholas.

As differentiated from the existing city building code, which primarily establishes regulations governing new construction projects, the proposed housing code will be specifically aimed to cover remodeling projects on older dwellings.

"We feel the adoption of a minimum housing requirements code will greatly benefit our upcoming home rehabilitation efforts," Delph said. "Because we will be dealing in fixing-up sub-standard housing, it was necessary that specific regulations governing this type of project be put on the books."

It would be unfeasible to require that the remodeling projects conform with the regular city building code, Delph said, because most of the homes that will be improved under this program were constructed many decades ago when construction standards were different in many ways from those of today.

Although the proposal of this housing code was triggered by the block grant program, it will become effective for the entire city if approved by the City Council, Garrison said. The block grant program itself only covers certain "impact" areas in the northern and southern sections of the city.

At last Monday night's council meeting, the council approved permitting the MVHRDC to perform all home improvement and rehabilitation projects under the block grant program. The MVHRDC will work in cooperation with Delph and newly-named code enforcer, Mrs. Norma Smith.

Five or six housing codes such as that to be proposed by Delph are used across the country, Garrison said. The decision has been made to propose adopting the "Uniform Housing Code, 1973 Edition," because it coincides with the city building code.

Delph will present the proposed housing code to the City Council for consideration Sept. 20.

S. Africans rescind some racial practices

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government announced today it was rescinding some discriminatory practices against persons of mixed race after three days of rioting claimed an announced total of 21 lives in areas around Cape Town.

Heavily armed riot police patrolled at least 15 Cape Town districts hit by antigovernment disorders. Police gunfire killed 16, including and 8-year-old boy, Thursday and wounded 19 in rioting, arson and looting around the coastal city 800 miles southwest of Johannesburg, according to local police reports.

Cape Town and its environs are home to many of South Africa's 2.4 million coloreds, as people of mixed race are officially called.

Prime Minister John Vorster met behind closed doors today with 250 top members of the ruling Nationalist party to review the wave of racial unrest in South Africa and report on his recent trip to Switzerland for talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The government's announced concessions to coloreds, which it said was based on giving up "obsolete practices and usages," appeared to fall short of demands being made by nonwhite militants.

There was no mention of widened political rights in the list, which involved changes in rules for nonwhite businessmen and in segregated entrances and waiting rooms for some public facilities such as hospitals. One change would allow nonwhites to participate equally with whites at scientific and art conferences.

Kirkpatrick: not enough signatures

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today petitions attempting to place the name of independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy on Missouri's Nov. 2 election ballot do not contain the needed number of signatures.

Attorneys for McCarthy and the state were to argue the validity of a law that would have prohibited McCarthy backers from even submitting the petitions later in the day. There was no immediate indication what effect Kirkpatrick's report to U. S. District Judge Elmo B. Hunter would have on that suit.

Under state law, candidates seeking general election ballot status as independents not aligned with any party must file petitions by late April, while those seeking ballot positions as members of minor parties have until the end of July to file the same types of petitions.

The American Civil Liberties Union filed suit against the state on McCarthy's behalf, contending the difference in dates and the fact that major party candidates are not selected until the August primary discriminates against independent candidates.

More thefts reported to local police

Sedalia police are investigating the latest in a series of thefts from the front porches of Sedalia residences.

Betty Long, 2001 East 12th, reported the theft of two lawn chairs, valued at $50, from the front porch of her home Wednesday evening. On Thursday evening, she told police, a hanging plant was taken from the porch.

LVS Corp., 1600 South Prospect, reported $145 in damage to its building by vandals. A glass door was broken and a sliding door was moved off its track Thursday evening.

Ronald Leroy Bartlett, 246½ South Prospect, reported the theft of a 1976 Kawasaki motorcycle from his home sometime between 11:45 p.m. Wednesday and 7:30 a.m. Thursday. The vehicle was locked at the time of the theft and was sitting on Bartlett's lawn, he told police.

A trumpet, carrying case and a mute were reported stolen sometime during the summer from Russell Flores, 224 State Fair Blvd., his mother, Mary A. Flores, told police Thursday. She said the items were taken from the music room at Smith-Cotton High School.

Detente with China

U.S. role questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deaths within the last eight months of China's two strongest proponents of detente with the United States have left analysts here wondering about the durability of Washington's role in China's balance-of-power strategy.

Within hours after the announcement of the death of Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger issued an optimistic statement about the future of U.S. relations with Peking, but he also indicated he has some apprehensions.

At one point, he told reporters on Thursday that it is "extremely difficult" to predict what China will do now, but moments later he said he is "sure that from the Chinese side, the basic lines of policy will continue to be pursued."

Kissinger was one of the chief architects of the move that, in 1971, ended more than two decades of hostility between the two countries. That policy was shaped in cooperation with Mao and Prime Minister Chou En-lai, who died in January.

Kissinger, whose comments appeared to be directed primarily at Peking, emphasized on several occasions that mutual interests are more important than personalities in formulating policy.

Therefore, he said, "the main lines of policy are likely to be continued." He pledged a continued American effort to normalize relations with Peking.

Since that effort began, the two countries have exchanged liaison officers and there has been a substantial increase in trade and frequent cultural and educational exchanges.

Lately, however, there has been little movement toward normalization and there have been reports — disputed by Kissinger — that Peking is growing impatient with the slow process.

Significantly, Kissinger said that although there could be a modification of tactics, China's long-standing rift with the Soviet Union likely will continue.

Other analysts, however, believe that Mao's death raises the best opportunity in many years for an easing of tensions between Moscow and Peking.

Aside from policy issues, Kissinger, who had met with Mao five times, called Mao an "eminent forceful personality" and said that "nothing he said was ever without purpose."

Campaign law veto sustained

78th session is over

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The 78th Missouri General Assembly has closed its legislative books, its last act sustaining Gov. Christopher S. Bond's veto of a bill revising the state's campaign law.

Those who sought to override Bond's veto could muster a scant 40 votes, 69 short of the two-thirds majority needed to overcome the governor's opposition. He had 108 votes supporting his position.

The House action ended the legislature's two-day veto session, and spelled the end of the two-year legislative session for most of those who were elected in 1974.

Although the Senate had gathered the necessary votes to override Bond, House members could not do so without the support of Speaker Richard Rabbitt, who had said he would support the governor's position.

Rabbitt was on the opposite side of the political fence from Majority Floor Leader Kenneth Rothman, who had said the campaign bill must be approved over Bond's objections because "there are so many large problems with the campaign law."

"As the months unfold in the future, you're going to see innocent mistake after innocent mistake until something is done," Rothman said.

But Rep. John Buechner, R-Kirkwood, expressed the will of the House, saying the only way the bill should be approved is with the assurance that the legislature would come back in the future to approve a better conflict of interest bill later on.

"We'll never really make the changes that are necessary," Buechner said.

A few hours before the House voted, Bond announced that he would again offer legislation to the 1977 General Assembly which would exempt from the campaign law's economic disclosure requirements minor candidates who spend less than $500 to seek an office with a salary of less than $1,500 a year. That proposal is nearly identical to one he supported last session.

Under the campaign law, approved overwhelmingly by voters in 1974, all candidates must disclose their sources of income over $500.

The bill which Bond vetoed last June would have exempted those spending less than $500 in a campaign from disclosing their income, and the reporting requirements for those spending more than that amount would have been relaxed.

Doctor abuses invite socialized medicine

WASHINGTON — The American Medical Association and most of the nation's doctors have been fighting doggedly to block anything that smells of further government control of the medical profession.

Rowan But if you've followed recent Senate hearings on the medical profession, or read the testimony in recent court cases involving doctors, you know that further government involvement is inevitable. And it may reach what the doctors describe as "socialized medicine."

Vast new government involvement, expenditures and controls seem inevitable for the simple reason that both the medical profession and our health care delivery systems are in an outrageous mess. They are shot through with greed, corruption, incompetence and indifference.

You probably were revolted by recent testimony before the Subcommittee on Long Term Care of the Senate Special Committee on Aging — hearings that dealt with fraud and abuse of the $15 billion-a-year Medicaid program.

Those hearings starred two chiropractors who have been sentenced to five years in jail for defrauding the government to the tune of $600,000 in their chain of Medicaid clinics in New York City. We heard one of them testify that "everybody's cheating and everybody's bragging about it, too."

We saw how these Medicaid mills gave costly X-rays, laboratory tests and drugs for non-existent illnesses to Senate investigators who posed as patients. We saw how doctors charged the government for attending patients they never saw.

Most pathetically of all, we saw wretchedly needy, sick people from the ghettos sitting in these Medicaid mills, needing decent treatment but about to get the quick slap on the back, tap on the chest and a hearty, "Hurry back!"

Meanwhile in federal court here, a doctor who runs a Medicaid abortion mill admitted his negligence in the death of a young woman on whom he had performed an incomplete abortion. The mother of the dead woman had charged that Dr. Robert J. Sherman deliberately failed to complete this and other abortions so the patients would have to return for a second operation, allowing him to collect a second fee. Dr. Sherman admitted negligence in the face of affidavits by former employees charging that he ran a "sloppy, haphazard, improperly staffed, overcrowded" clinic.

Dentists charge for "filling" cavities which never existed.

Public reactions to these outrages are sometimes as absurd as the abuses and frauds themselves:

—Abolish Medicare and Medicaid and go back to private enterprise in medicine.

—There would be no problem if they just locked up all the cheating doctors.

—Have some sympathy for these doctors in the so-called Medicaid mills; they're the only ones who'll work in the ghetto; they only cheat because government pays them only a third of what they could get from private patients; and without them these poor ghetto residents would have no medical care at all.

But note the answer of Joseph Ingber, one of the chiropractors sentenced to prison in New York, when he was asked by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., why the frauds appear in Medicaid programs, but not the private practice of medicine:

"It is in the private sector," Ingber said. "Maybe you'll be investigating that five years from now. Men are ripping off the private insurance companies, and that's why premiums are so high."

In an interview in the Washington Star recently, Dr. Edgar Berman said this of his profession: "The (medical) profession is a sick profession today and this sickness has been going on now and increasing in the past 10 to 15 years. And although they have been warned time and time again that the consultant who is going to be called in will be the federal government, they haven't heeded it."

Why do we have big government? Because government drifts into vacuums of discipline and control. It rides herd on the stock market because of past calamitous abuses. It monitors the drug industry, pressures the automobile industry, lays rigid rules on lending institutions because they all opened the door to government intervention by short-hanging or defrauding the public.

The medical profession is begging for the imposition of a national health care program which may turn out to be not only socialistic, but draconian, so great are the medical abuses that need to be stopped.

Scouting in the old days

By DOUG KNEIBERT

If you are a parent of a scout, you will sooner or later be called upon to function as an unofficial assistant scoutmaster. My turn came the other night.

The task was to instruct the troop in canoeing. Like most scouts, these were already experts at canoeing, judging from the talk before we got to the water. They all had their Know-it-All Badge.

Having been a scout myself, however, I knew that talk was cheap. Once we got the canoes in the water — first instructing on which side was up — it became obvious that we had a ways to go yet.

The first thing members of a scout troop must learn is how to talk at one time. This is not really too difficult, especially for boys from large families. The result is that the scoutmaster, or his assistant, will end up talking mainly to himself, which can continue well after he gets back home.

The upshot of all this was that we soon opted for the sink-or-swim method of instruction, with six canoes, each containing two scouts, practicing in the middle of the lake. At that point it is best to hide your eyes and hope for the best.

Miraculously, no one collided or capsized. We now have a dozen or so scouts who can take to the water with at least a 50-50 chance of staying on the river instead of in it.

Based on my observations over the last four or five years, I would say that scouting isn't what it used to be. When I was a kid, rule one was that you did everything the hard way.

The byword of camping today is travel light. In my scout days it was travel heavy. I had an Army surplus pistol belt on which I would hang a hunting knife, hatchet, canteen, flashlight, trench shovel and machete. You had trouble getting out of the chair with that load.

Nylon was all but unheard of, so your tent and sleeping bag was made of 60-gauge canvas. You needed a couple of pack mules just to clear the driveway.

When it comes to food, there's no comparison. Today menus are actually planned for balance and nutrition. In my day you tossed in a couple of cans of Van Camp's baked beans, two cupcakes and a jar of peanut butter. I think every kid in my troop had beri-beri.

And today you get promoted, and pretty fast. This area wasn't so well organized when I was a scout. I think I stayed a tenderfoot for two or three years. No one seemed to particularly mind.

It was a taut outfit in other respects, though. Take discipline. We had what was known as the belt line, which you would crawl through on your hands and knees while your fellow scouts pulverized your posterior with their belts — sometimes the buckle end. They ruled the belt line cruel and unusual punishment sometime after I got out, but where was the American Civil Liberties Union when I needed it?

Scouts today also do a lot more. All I can remember from camp was sitting around weaving bracelets out of various-colored strands of plastic. I had a green and yellow bracelet, a red and blue one, a brown and gold one, and even a woven lanyard for my knife. You were pretty cool at camp with all those bracelets, but back in my home town they tended to look at you a little funny.

No, scouting isn't what it used to be. And it's probably a good thing, too.

Intelligence coup from Soviet MIG

In the shadow world of military intelligence, most information is obtained by the painstaking process of putting together small bits of information from a variety of sources. Rarely does it fall in your lap.

But that is exactly what happened Monday, when a Soviet pilot landed a MIG-25 jet in Japan, announcing that he was seeking political asylum in the United States.

Nicknamed the "Foxbat" by Western intelligence, the MIG-25 is Russia's first-line fighter aircraft. Up to now little has been known about the plane's capabilities. But Lt. Viktor Belenko changed all that.

Although his MIG will eventually be returned to Russia, Belenko's defection allowed U.S. and other Western intelligence experts to thoroughly examine the plane while it remained in Japan. As one might expect, this was done over strenuous Soviet objections. Of special interest is said to be the plane's fire control system and target acquisition radar.

In terms of speed and ceiling, the MIG-25 is superior to any U.S. fighter, although the American F-15 is more maneuverable. The fact that the Foxbat's secrets have fallen into Western hands is no doubt causing severe anguish in the Kremlin.

As for Lt. Belenko, the Russians have lodged several protests with the Japanese for not returning him. It takes little imagination to envision the kind of welcome home party they would arrange.

Belenko is due to arrive in this country sometime this weekend, where he will no doubt be questioned extensively on piloting the Foxbat. It goes without saying that the KGB would like to prevent that. We hope U.S. security will see that they don't.

"See you in November, Bob."

Is Agnew in pay of Arab nations?

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is examining Spiro Agnew's pro-Arab, anti-Israeli activities to determine whether he must register as a foreign agent.

The former vice president heads a curious tax-exempt foundation called "Education for Democracy." Its July newsletter reads like a reprint from an Arab propagandist's tear-sheet. At the same time, Agnew has become a middleman for deals between U.S. firms and Arab governments.

What the Justice Department wants to know is whether his foundation, newsletter or business deals receive any direction from foreign governments. This would be a violation of the criminal code.

For under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, anyone under the direction of another government, even in small matters, must register as a foreign agent. Agnew is not registered.

As we reported in an earlier column, the money behind Agnew's foundation doesn't come from Arab sources. He solicited contributions from such disparate friends as ex-presidential contender Ronald Reagan, convicted Watergate figure Maurice Stans, actor John Wayne, brewer Joseph Coors, lobbyist Bryce Harlow and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C.

Agnew even kicked in a $20,000 contribution of his own to the foundation. But this only increases the curiosity of the Justice Department lawyers. They wonder, for example, where he got the $20,000. Did it come indirectly from Arab sources?

They also want to know whether he publishes Arab propaganda in return for business deals. If there are any hidden Arab contributions or quid pro quos, Agnew could be in violation of the law.

It isn't likely that Agnew would be prosecuted for his activities, although violators can be sent to prison. The penalty probably would be no more than an order to register forthwith as an agent for Arab clients.

But the registration would open his files for inspection. He would be required to report personal and financial data. And since he was forced out of the vice presidency, Spiro Agnew has been extremely secretive about who is paying him.

Footnote: Agnew did not return our calls. His legal advisors insist, however, that he is not required to register under the act.

Revolving Republicans: This year Republicans won't be able to use the traditional campaign theme, "Don't change horses in midstream."

At least that's what Democratic party boss Bob Strauss is saying. In a fundraising letter, Strauss outlines the game of government musical chairs the GOP has been playing during the past seven years.

Both Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew resigned from office. That meant two appointed vice presidents and one appointed president, Strauss points out.

There have been six different Republican attorneys general, five commerce and labor secretaries, four secretaries at defense, interior, and health, education and welfare. The Department of Housing and Urban Development has had three different bosses in seven years.

Meanwhile, the CIA is on its fourth new director, as is the Budget office and the Federal Energy Administration. The FBI command has turned over only three times.

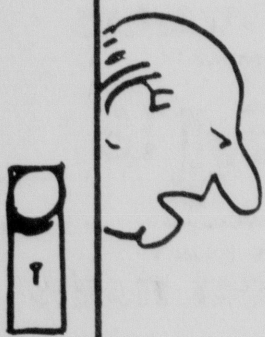

Strauss, of course, is pushing for one more change at all of these agencies. That would be the appointment of Democratic party faithfuls in a Carter administration.

Washington Whirl: Prior to a recent House poll on anti-abortion, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, was asked by his cloakroom colleagues how he planned to vote. Hays, who has admitted to a personal liaison with Elizabeth Ray, smiled back: "Since I've come out foursquare for (sex), I guess I have to favor abortion."

—Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., may now be regretting his ardent support for congressional funding of a subway system for Washington. The construction crews have now made a trench out of the street in front of his home, and he is awakened every morning by the turmoil.

East's two-diamond overcall on a four-card suit is rather unusual, but he just hated to pass with his fine hand.

South rebid to two spades and played the hand there. East cashed three diamonds and then played ace and deuce of hearts.

The hand looked like a cinch for the rest of the tricks, but South got a rude shock when West showed out on the lead of the ace of spades. Now South had to try to find a way to collect eight tricks. He entered dummy with a club and led a spade. East's nine forced South's king.

Back to dummy with another club. Lo and behold East, who had dropped the jack on the first club, played the queen this time and South was in business.

He led the good 10 of clubs. East made his best play by ruffing with the 10 of trumps and South carefully undertruffed. This left East on lead with the last diamond and the jack-six of spades. South held the queen of hearts and queen-eight of spades while North held a spade, heart and club.

If East led a trump, South would just take the last three tricks. If he led the last diamond, South would discard his high heart, ruff in dummy and claim.

♠ 9 3 ♥ A K J 6 4 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ 8 6 4

Both sides are vulnerable.

We recommend a pass since there is too much danger of running into real trouble. Still, if you like to live dangerously a two-heart overcall is not the worst bid ever made.

PRISCILLA'S POP

Ann Landers

Tickling not fun for the victim

Dear Ann Landers: I have been reading with a great deal of interest the letters about people who love to tickle, under the guise of "having a little fun." You pointed out that when tickling becomes excessive and the "victim" doesn't like it and the person doing the tickling keeps it up, there's more to it than just fun. "Sadistic" is what you called it, and how right you are!

Shortly after we married, my husband used to sit on my legs, hold my hands down and tickle me until I screamed in agony and begged him to stop. He'd laugh and say, "I'm just having a little fun!"

One night he nearly drove me crazy with his tickling. I screamed, "If you don't stop I'm going to spit in your face." He snapped back, "You wouldn't dare!" Well I did it. He became so furious he beat me senseless.

The next day I took my broken jaw, black eyes and five teeth (wrapped in a handkerchief) to a lawyer and filed for divorce. The lawyer (and my doctor) said I was lucky the lunatic didn't kill me — because he was a real nut.

So, Ann, add this one to your true-to-life stories about ticklers. — Graveyard Humor

Dear G.H.: Thanks for the eye-opener. And congratulations on walking out — before you had to be carried out.

Dear Ann Landers: I need to say a few words to the young man who wrote to you and said he felt like a "non-person," "worthless" and wanted to die.

My mother must have had those same feelings. She killed herself two years ago. Although Mom succeeded in putting an end to her suffering I can't describe what she did to her family.

I have been under psychiatric care for almost a year but I still cry a lot. I know in my heart (and head) that I was not responsible for my mother's death, but I can't stop blaming myself. I keep thinking if I had been a better daughter Mom wouldn't have wanted to hurt me like this.

My psychiatrist explained that suicide is punishment for the survivors. The person who does this dastardly deed plans it that way. It is the ultimate payback for real or imagined abuse.

I know you receive thousands of letters and can print only a few, but please try to fit this in somewhere, Ann. It might help others. — C.V.

Dear C.V.: Here it is — and I thank you for writing it. Your letter can be immensely comforting to those who are struggling with unearned guilt produced by the suicide of a loved one. God knows they need all the help they can get.

Dear Ann Landers: My problem concerns a friend of long standing. Several years ago we were having trouble with our daughter. My "friend's" sole attempt at consolation was, "I wish I had her for a year." She was, of course, putting me down and holding herself up as someone who could do my job better.

Being troubled, I didn't have a ready answer. When I look back at her lack of compassion I become furious. What should I say to her NOW? — Cut Deep

Dear Deep: Nothing. You don't really like this woman, for reasons unrelated to the early neglect. Life is too short to spend time with people you don't care for. The question you ought to be asking yourself is why do you continue to see her?

Bengals key against run

S-C hopes to rebound from last week's loss

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sports writer

The Smith Cotton Tigers are hopeful of gaining their first victory of the season when they travel to Marshall to face the Owls tonight at 8 p.m.

Last week the Owls were a 7-6 victor over Blue Springs while the Tigers fell to Springfield Central 16-13 in the Sedalia home opener.

Marshall's head coach, Cecil Naylor, holds an impressive 104-34-11 coaching record in his 16-year career there. One of his biggest offensive plays has been the wingback trap and most likely this year will be no exception.

Sophomores dominate the Marshall squad. The Owls have only 19 junior and senior players combined on the team while the sophs boast 29 players and they are backing up starters at nearly every position.

One of Marshall's leading offensive players is junior tailback Rodney Stephenson. He picked up 77 yards on 14 carries against Blue Springs last week and also caught a couple of passes for 19 yards.

Heading the offensive corps will be quarterback Brett Liesemeyer, who will be starting this year after playing behind Greg Miles (a departed graduate) last season. "We don't think he's a great passer and not a great running threat," says Tiger head coach, Bob Fletcher. "They (Marshall) won't be the same type of team as last week — we knew their quarterback was exceptionally good." Since Liesemeyer is not such a good thrower, Fletcher expects Marshall to run more than Springfield did.

The defensive secondary seems to be the weak area for the Owls. Last week against Blue Springs, the secondary yielded 154 passing yards (11 of 21 passes). "We're gonna throw the ball," commented Coach Fletcher of the Marshall defensive weakness. If the Tigers can't mount a running game, their only alternative is the passing game.

Marshall's defensive front is led by big 225-pound Steve Heinzler, who suffered a strained knee in the Blue Springs game, but is expected to be ready for tonight's game. Heinzler is the only returning starter on the line from last year's team which finished with a 10-2 record and went on to the semifinals of the Class-AAA playoffs.

The lone returning starter from last year's backfield is fullback Bill Brown.

Before the season started, Naylor commented on his young squad, "The key will be the first couple of games— if we can put it together early, get some confidence and not guards; and Terry Kliethermes (180)—center.

Speaking of Heinzler, Coach Fletcher said that the Tigers would have a good blocker on him, but if the blocker couldn't handle him, they'd run elsewhere with the ball. Sedalia's starting line-up will be: Marty Breeze, senior — tight end; Steve Brock, senior, and Sam Hargrave, senior, at tackles; Frank Norphy, junior, and David Neth, junior — guards; Scott Flippin, senior — center; David Albright, junior — split end;

Brian Buckner, junior — running back; Ed Kitchen, junior — halfback; Bo Poindexter, sophomore — fullback; and Kirk Fletcher, junior — quarterback.

In the defensive secondary will be Dale Boggs, David Albright, and Kirk and Keith Fletcher. Ernie Poole and Dallas Smith will anchor the defensive end positions.

"We've recovered real well from our loss," said Coach Fletcher. "I think the boys will play a good ball game — we'll be ready."

So. Cal. gets nod over MU

By PICK M. WRIGHT
Fearless Forecaster

The crystal ball has been dusted off for yet another season of fumbles, blocked punts and lost bets. This year's prognostications will be lucky to improve upon last year's 47-12 slate. All Big Eight teams are in action this weekend against non-conference foes. Last year's regular-season records are in parentheses.

Missouri (6-5) at Southern Cal (7-4)

There's not a lot of difference talent-wise between these teams, but the Trojans get the nod mainly because the Tigers, like the rest of the Big Eight, traditionally play like pussycats on the West Coast. Missouri also has too many defensive questionmarks. Give USC 4 points for the West Coast jinx, 4 more for playing at home and subtract 3 from MU for being awed by the big city lights. Southern Cal 31, Missouri 20.

Drake (3-8) at Iowa State (4-7)

Both teams made little noise last year and aren't expected to be heard from this year either. But Drake was 3-8 last year in the Missouri Valley, not noted for its caliber of play. Iowa State 27, Drake 7.

Brigham Young (6-5) at Kansas State (3-8)

This one's a toss-up. K-State boasts one of the worst offenses in the nation, but can beat you defensively. Despite the opening-day optimism in Manhattan, BYU gets the edge. BYU 17, Kansas State 16.

Tulsa (7-4) at Oklahoma State (7-4)

Don't look for any miracle out of Tulsa. Oklahoma State is a solid football team expected by most to challenge for second in the conference. Oklahoma State 33, Tulsa 13.

Colorado (9-2) at Texas Tech (6-5)

The Red Raiders always seem to do well against Big Eight teams, but the Buffs would like to avenge last season's Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl loss to another Texas team, the Texas Longhorns. I'll take Colorado, but not by much. Colorado 24, Texas Tech 21.

Washington State (3-8) at Kansas (7-4)

One of the Cougars' three victims last year was KU. Now that Cromwell, Coach Moore and the boys have got their act together, it isn't likely to happen again. Kansas 35, Washington State 17.

Oklahoma (10-1) at Vanderbilt (7-4)

Don't laugh. This one could be a lot closer than people think. Oklahoma's still got the horses, but they're no longer all thoroughbreds. And the Commodores beat some pretty decent football teams last year — Tennessee, Kentucky and Tulane to name three. Oklahoma gets the edge, but only by 7. Oklahoma 23, Vanderbilt 16.

Nebraska (10-1) at Louisiana State (4-7)

An upset? Why not? Louisiana State lost only 10-7 to the Cornhuskers last year at Lincoln and will be sky-high before the home folks when they entertain the No. 1 team in the nation. It's going to be Missouri-Alabama all over. LSU 20, Nebraska 14.

Tigers X-country invitational Saturday

Seventeen schools, including host Smith-Cotton and cross-town small-school rival Sacred Heart, are entered in Saturday's Smith-Cotton Invitational Cross Country Run at Elm Hills Golf Course.

Twelve schools are entered in the Class-A big school division, the other five make up the Class-B small school division.

The opening run is slated for 10 a.m. with the junior varsity teams testing the 2.5-mile course. The Class-B division will follow with the Class-A teams concluding the morning competition.

Smith-Cotton will be joined in the big-school field by Camdenton, Chillicothe, Columbia Hickman, Jefferson City, Pleasant Hill, Raytown South and Brookfield, as well as Northeast, Southeast, Southwest and Van Horn from Kansas City.

Entered in the Class-B division along with Sedalia Sacred Heart are Russellville, LaMonte, Leeton and Slater.

Jefferson City and Raytown South are rated as favorites in the run, followed by Southwest and Southeast as dark horses.

Smith-Cotton returns three lettermen from last year's varsity, including seniors Greg Lovercamp and Bartley Ives, and junior Brian Dickmann.

Another junior, Chris Berenyi, and three sophomores, Dwight Dabney, Mick Hall and Kent Miller, will round out the Tigers' varsity runners for the annual invitational.

Following Saturday's 17-school invitational, the Tigers will travel to Raytown South for a Sept. 18 run.

Green Ridge pins S-C twice in girls volleyball

Behind some strong offensive play by Gail Harding and Brenda Myears and a balanced defense spearheaded by Janet Brownfield, Green Ridge dominated Sedalia Smith-Cotton in girls volleyball Thursday night and dealt the Tigers straight set setbacks, 15-0 and 15-2.

Donna Webster wound up as the game's leading scorer with 16 points.

The night went equally as bad for Smith-Cotton in the junior varsity opener, when Green Ridge pinned the host Tigers with 15-5 and 15-0 straight set losses.

Crystal Finke was the leading scorer with 19 points for Green Ridge.

Smith-Cotton, which opened its season Thursday night in the Fine Arts and Physical Education Building, hosts Marshall at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The next action for Green Ridge will be a non-conference varsity-junior varsity doubleheader at California also on Tuesday.

Tigers keyed to ring Ricky's bell

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Ricky Bell has all the assets a great back needs—speed, strength and the ability to catch the ball. He truly should be the leading Heisman Trophy candidate," says Missouri Coach Al Onofrio of Southern California's tailback.

"Steve Pisarkiewicz is one of the best passers in the nation," says USC Trojans Coach John Robinson of the Missouri quarterback. "If he's hot, he can kill you."

Despite Onofrio's high opinion of Bell and Robinson's respect for Pisarkiewicz, each coach undoubtedly hopes the other team's star will have a rotten outing Saturday when the Tigers and Trojans open their 1976 football campaigns in the Coliseum.

If Bell, the nation's leading collegiate rusher last season, can rip off big chunks of yardage against Missouri, the Trojans should win. But if Pisarkiewicz, the Big Eight's leading passer last year, is on the money, the Tigers could ambush Southern California.

USC, eighth-ranked in the preseason polls, is favored over the Tigers. But Missouri was an underdog in its opening game last season, and scored a startling upset over highly regarded Alabama.

Pisarkiewicz, for one, is up for the game against USC.

"This is one of those games where we are going to have to start off in midseason form," he said. "We will have to play a flawless game, and can't have those typical first-game mistakes."

"I think they are for real. We were 100 per cent for Alabama, but they turned out to be not as strong a team as I know USC will be."

Missouri cornerback Bruce

Carter is thinking about Bell.

"I know Ricky Bell is something special, but we've got to take it to him," Carter said. "If we get our minds together and decide we can do it, I think we can be just as effective as we were against Alabama."

Onofrio, like his players, has a lot of respect for USC. "Southern Cal certainly deserves to be ranked among the nation's top 10 teams," Onofrio said. "They have a great football tradition. I've watched USC teams play through the years, and they always seem to come up with outstanding teams, and outstanding individuals."

"They are starting a new era under Coach Robinson," Onofrio continued, "and indications are that their offense will be more flexible than in the past. He certainly has the personnel to do it."

Lane turns it on early

Running back Arthur Lane of Arizona State picks up yardage in the early going of Thursday night's NCAA clash in Tempe, Ariz., for the host Sun Devils. Moving in to make the tackle on Lane is Harold Hardin of UCLA. The favored Sun Devils bowed to the Bruins, 28-10.

UCLA opens campaign with upset over ASU

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The 1976 football season has been dubbed as Arizona State's "year to make history" — the first real chance for the Sun Devils to win the mythical national title. However, somebody forgot to tell the UCLA Bruins and their quarterback, senior Jeff Dankworth.

Dankworth, overshadowed the past two years by All-American John Sciarra, guided the awesome Bruins' ground attack as it chewed up 486 yards en route to a 28-10 rout of the third-ranked Sun Devils in a nationally televised game Thursday night.

The victory not only left the Devils agast, but also nearly all of the 50,876 fans who packed Sun Devil Stadium and witnessed the nation's longest major college winning streak snapped at 13.

"We're fortunate to have had three weeks to prepare for this game," said Dankworth. "That's longer, of course, than for most games."

"Our whole game plan really was the counter-option and counter-diver, because they do so much stacking, overshifting, stunting and blitzing."

Dankworth attained near perfection in executing the game plan, and himself rushed for 155 yards on 19 carries, scoring twice.

Sophomore halfback Theotis Brown added another 127 yards and two TDs, while running back Wendell Tyler contributed an additional 93 yards on 21 attempts.

While the offense came up with 509 total yards, the Bruins' defense kept Arizona State from mounting any serious threat, allowing the Devils only 137 yards on the ground and 150 through the air.

Arizona State fullback Freddie Williams, who has rushed for over 1,000 yards in each of the past two seasons, was held to 70 yards on 13 carries. The Devils' top rusher for the night was freshman halfback Arthur Lane, who carried the ball 11 times for 74 yards.

"We were embarrassing, both offensively and defensively," observed a very dejected Frank Kush, who is now in his 19th year as head coach at Arizona State. "I thought our offense would be more productive, but they weren't. Our line just did not do a good job. They didn't play the way they are capable of."

The Sun Devils capitalized on a recovered fumble late in the opening period to score a 29-yard field goal, which was booted by Kush's son, Danny. But they were shut out between then and the last 2½ minutes of the game, when they got their first touchdown on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Dennis Sproul to split end John Jefferson in the end zone.

After the Arizona State threepointer, the Bruins took the ensuing kickoff and mounted an 80-yard march that culminated with a 32-yard scoring scamper by Dankworth.

"They took the fake outside, and I cut back in," explained Dankworth. "This is the type of offense that works against a team like ASU."

UCLA got its second touchdown with 4:36 left in the first half as Dankworth kept the ball on a broken play at the Arizona State one-yard line and ran into the end zone.

Brown, a 6-foot-3, 215-pound running back, accounted for the final two touchdowns for the victors with scoring runs of 2 and 26 yards in the third period.

"Against ASU it's extreme."

Kush probably wishes Donahue had gone to the air more, but adds that, "we were just not mentally prepared. That's my responsibility, so we'll just have to work harder. We have a long way to go."

The UCLA-Arizona State clash marked the season's first meeting of ranked teams. Two more such pairings are on tap Saturday when every other member of The Associated Press Top Twenty will be in action. Besides UCLA and Arizona State, the only ranked teams to have begun play are No. 19 Kansas, which defeated Oregon State last weekend, and No. 20 Miami of Ohio, a loser to North Carolina.

In Saturday's Top Twenty match-ups, ninth-ranked Pitt tangles with No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, while No. 15 California visits No. 16 Georgia.

Top-ranked Nebraska gets under way Saturday night at Louisiana State, runner-up Michigan entertains Wisconsin and fourth-ranked Ohio State hosts Michigan State.

Two-time national champion Oklahoma, ranked no better than fifth in this year's preseason poll, visits Vanderbilt. Night contests find sixth-ranked Alabama going against Mississippi in Jackson, No. 7 Texas at Boston College and No. 8 Southern California at home against Missouri.

Elsewhere, Stanford is at 10th-ranked Penn State, Richmond at No. 12 Maryland, Utah State vs. No. 13 Arkansas in a Little Rock night contest, Virginia Tech at No. 14 Texas A&M, North Carolina vs. No. 18 Florida under the lights in Tampa, Washington State at Kansas and Miami of Ohio at Marshall.

St. Louis Blues sign Rod Seiling

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran National Hockey League defenseman Rod Seiling has been signed to a multi-year contract, General Manager Emile Francis of St. Louis Blues announced Thursday.

Seiling, 31, became a free-agent after playing out his contract with the Toronto Maple Leafs last season. The Leafs will get another player, a draft choice of cash for Seiling.

"Rod is a defensive defenseman," Francis said. "He will be a steadying influence on our young defensemen."

Kromm in line for Wings' job?

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Kromm, one of four coaches with Team Canada in the six-country Canada Cup hockey tournament, brushed aside questions Thursday night about reports he is in line to coach the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in the 1977-78 season.

Kromm, who is entering the final year of a contract to coach Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association, was asked if he had discussed a job with the Red Wings, and replied: "Nonsense. I don't want to be asked about that. Everybody's bothering me about that."

There was a report out of Detroit this week that the Red Wings had agreed to terms with a coach who had continuing commitments for this season but who would become available once the 1976-77 campaign is over.

Royals need 10 innings to solve Angels, 6-5

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The jury is still out on the Kansas City Royals, but George Brett and Steve Mingori presented a convincing case in their support Thursday night.

"We just haven't been getting any luck and hopefully this will carry us through," remarked Brett after delivering a twoout single to center to drive in Dave Nelson and give the Royals a 6-5, 10-inning victory over the California Angels.

"If this doesn't get us going, I don't know what will."

Brett, sent to a hospital the night before after being injured while trying to break up a double play, contributed five singles to Kansas City's 18-hit attack as the Royals remained five games ahead of the Oakland A's in the American League West.

The Royals had lost four in a row and nine of their last 10, and had managed just nine hits and one run in their two previous games with the Angels.

But they came back three times Thursday night to erase California leads, including a 5-3 deficit with two outs in the ninth.

Getting the victory was Mingori, 4-4, who shut out the Angels on two hits after taking over for Dennis Leonard with one out in the eighth.

"I'd say it was an important victory," commented Mingori. "It was probably our biggest game of the year."

"But it's funny, with one out in the ninth I turned to Galen Cisco (Royals' pitching coach) and we both said 'We're going to win this thing.'"

The Kansas City relief ace echoed Brett in evaluating the significance of the victory.

"This'll be the game that turns us around," he forecast.

"We just realized that the time had come. Maybe we had too big a lead before. I think if we'd lost tonight, we'd be hurting."

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog refused to predict the victory would reverse the sagging fortunes of the Royals, who are being pressed for the first time since they grabbed the lead in mid-May.

"I'll tell you about Monday," he said. "We've got to go to Minnesota and we've had a history of not playing well there. We'll have to do better."

But the Kansas City skipper did permit himself a slight jab at the A's in general and Manager Chuck Tanner in particular.

"I suppose Tanner'll say we choked again," he said with a smile of satisfaction.

'Tiny' may be on the block

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Kings have discussed trading guard Nate Archibald to the New York Nets but no deal has yet been made, Kings President and General Manager Joe Axelson said Thursday.

"There have been lengthy discussions with the Nets. But nothing has been finalized," Axelson reported.

The Kings official admitted that a trade was still possible, but he was quick to qualify the statement.

"It's also possible nothing will come of it. All I can say is there have been lengthy discussions over a period of weeks," Axelson said.

He also refused to say whether talks involved the Nets' Brian Taylor, a guard, and Jim Eakins, a center.

The high-scoring Archibald has been a mainstay in the Kings backcourt since he entered the National Basketball Association as a second-round draft choice out of Texas-El Paso in 1970. But he has long expressed a desire to play in his home town of New York before his career is over.

In June, the 6-foot-2 Archibald was quoted by a New York sportscaster as saying: "My place is New York. I think I could play more years and get more out of it here. A lot of guys who are dissatisfied have been traded. I've spent enough time in Cincinnati and Kansas City."

Axelson placed little importance on the statement at the time, but since has had several discussions with the four-time NBA all-star.

The 28-year-old Archibald, who led the league in both scoring and assists four years ago, reportedly makes $450,000 a year.

NCAA cites Oklahoma St.

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has sent a list of alleged recruiting infractions to Oklahoma State University. OSU faculty representative Roy Chapel confirmed Thursday.

"Yes, we have received the allegations," Chapel said.

"They are being reviewed," Chapel refused to comment further.

Athletic Director Floyd Gass was attending the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Regents and could not be reached for comment.

A source said the list included from 10 to 15 alleged infractions concerning the football program, supposedly occurring within the last two to three years.

The source said some of the charges were of a serious nature, but, in his opinion, were not well grounded.

The letter of allegations is the first step in a formal NCAA action. OSU will have the opportunity to study the charges and may appear before the NCAA Infractions Committee if it chooses.

Football Coach Jim Stanley said he was not aware of the list submitted by the NCAA. "I'd be the last to know," he said.

Stanley said he assumed the list was an outgrowth of action taken earlier by the Big Eight Conference in which OSU's football scholarship limit was cut from 30 to 27 this season.

"I'm sure that's part of it," said Stanley. "I'm not worried about it."

Bowie begins 36-day slate

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Bowie Race Course opens its 36-day fall meeting today, with General Manager Alvin A. Karwacki predicting a slight increase in attendance and betting.

"The major part of Bowie's business comes from the Washington, D.C., area," he said, "and that area hasn't had Thoroughbred racing since last March. It hasn't been saturated like the Baltimore area, which has had 154 days of continuous racing at Pimlico and Timonium."

In addition, Karwacki noted, there has been a sharp increase in reservations made by groups of 50 persons or more.

The average daily attendance at last fall's meeting was 8,298, with a daily mutual handle of $974,542. Karwacki expects the averages this year to reach 8,500 in attendance and a million dollars in betting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and British leaders plan to encourage huge investments of Western money in a future black-ruled Rhodesia as part of their effort to stabilize turbulent southern Africa, senior diplomats say.

Their aim is to insure an independent black-ruled Rhodesia that would not follow nearby Angola's trail toward reliance on the Soviet bloc.

Sources said the project, still in its formative stage, would parallel proposals for another fund insuring the financial and political security of Rhodesia's 270,000 white settlers if and when the country's six million blacks take power.

This insurance fund totaling up to $2 billion would be designed to safeguard the assets of Rhodesia's whites. This fund would provide compensation for those who, after a defined period, might decide to emigrate or who may be forced to sell their properties after black rule is established.

The American-British plan for an investment fund to help black Rhodesia was portrayed by sources here as an evenhanded effort to balance the offer to Rhodesia's white minority. Yet it appears to pack wide implications.

Rhodesia, for instance, is easily the world's major source of scarce chrome and provides other coveted minerals like copper, manganese, and gold, not to mention agricultural products like tobacco and corn.

British, American and other foreign companies have prized interests in the country.

The Ford administration and British Prime Minister James Callaghan's government are not finding it easy to convince like-minded Western nations to pledge meaningful contributions to these programs.

Astronaut's son

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite denials, two men convicted in West Point's cheating scandal stand by their sworn allegations that former astronaut Frank Borman's son accepted a $1,200 bribe to "fix" an honor code case while he was a cadet.

The son, Army Capt. Frederick Borman, denied the charge and offered to take a lie detector test to settle the issue.

The two cadets who are accused in the affidavits of having bribed Borman to fix a plebe's case also denied the allegation.

But the two members of the Class of 1977 who signed the statements refused to recant when told of the denials late Thursday.

One of them said he had learned of the incident from two friends who told him they in turn had heard of it from the alleged bribers. The second cadet said the two alleged bribers had boasted of their deed to him and to others in their cadet company.

The elder Borman, now president of Eastern Airlines, said he was anguished by the charges and said it was unfortunate they had been made.

Ironically, Borman, a West Point graduate who was promoted to general after his trip to the moon, is to preside at month's end at the first meeting of a blue-ribbon panel created by Army Secretary Martin R. Hoffmann to analyze the U.S. Military Academy's worst scandal in its 174 years.

"I have no intention of stepping down because I don't think I have a reason to step down," Borman said in a telephone interview.

The disputed affidavits are among those signed by 150 of the 226 cadets involved in the cheating scandal in an effort by defense lawyers to get them reinstated by showing that cheating is endemic at the

Polly's pointers

Iron-on decals fuse to fabric

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the makers of pet foods. When one acquires a new pet, it may take a while to learn just what foods they like. It is necessary to spend a couple of dollars on different foods they may not eat. It seems the food manufacturers could offer sample size packages of the different foods to be used as a trial, without wasting money on a lot of high priced cans and boxes. — MRS. P.S.

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Lula that I keep my suitcases free of mildew or mold by keeping a bar of toilet soap in each one. After using a case I always put in a bar before it is stored. I often even leave a bar of my favorite brand in the suitcase when I travel. — LOUISE

DEAR POLLY — I often take the children along when I go shopping, so I have made a list of the various restrooms and comfort stations available on quick notice. In many smaller towns the department stores often do not have such facilities, so a list of bus and gas stations and public buildings that do is always carried in my purse as a wise precaution. — CLAIRE

DEAR POLLY — Try putting several of the suction cups (used to hold soap) in the bottom of your tub or shower as a help to provide traction, when getting out of the tub or shower. They can also be picked up when cleaning the tub. — JEAN

DEAR POLLY — Screws are often hard to get through wood and other surfaces, but I have found an easy and fast way. Before trying to put the screw in the surface, rub bits of leftover soap around the screw. Use your screwdriver and find the screw goes in easier and in a jiffy. This also works with nails. — LINDA Y.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Please tell me how to remove an "iron-on" decal from a cotton T-shirt. — JOYCE

DEAR JOYCE — My answer is not good. I was informed by a maker of such decals that the transfer ink in the decals fuses with the fabric to which it is applied and cannot be removed—POLLY.

Retail meat prices mixed despite drop

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Retail meat prices were generally mixed this week despite reductions in farm prices for cattle and pork, according to the weekly marketbasket survey of the Missouri Farm Bureau.

The survey of selected food items at 50 grocery stores across the state also said that the spread between farm and consumer prices has increased 16 per cent for beef and 31 per cent for pork since July 1975. The spread between cattle prices and consumer beef prices is now at a near record high of 64 cents a pound the Farm Bureau said.

Beef blade roast rose three cents a pound to 80 cents and rib steak at $1.60 and ground beef at 75 cents each rose two cents a pound.

Arm roast remained steady at $1.07 a pound as did round steak at $1.42 a pound.

T-bone steak fell seven cents a pound to $1.96 and sirloin steak was down eight cents to $1.73 a pound.

Ham was lower with shank portions down four cents to 93 cents a pound and butt portions six cents lower at $1.03 a pound. Pork steak was a penny lower at $1.24 a pound.

But center cut chops were up a nickel a pound to $1.84 while pork blade roast rose a penny to $1.33.

Whole fryer chickens were also up a nickel to 53 cents a pound while cut up parts rose four cents to 62 cents a pound.

A gallon of whole milk remained steady at $1.54 while 2 per cent fell a penny to $1.45.

A dozen grade A eggs remained generally unchanged with extra large steady at 89 cents, large steady at 84 cents and medium down four cents to 78 cents.

A 1½ pound loaf of white bread was two cents higher at 64 cents while 10 pounds of red potatoes dropped 16 cents to $1.19.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Look at the flu half-century ago

Dear Dr. Lamb — There's so much talk about the flu. I am over 70 and had it real bad when it was here before. I got it being in the big parade, November 11, when World War I ended. I was living with my grandparents. They said it was a punishment for all of us. We should have been on our knees, not out enjoying ourselves when other people had such heartache.

Well I sure did have a bad time of it. No doctor came to houses. Hospitals wouldn't take any more patients. Relatives and friends didn't go near each other. We didn't have pain pills in those days. It was castor oil, baking soda, electric oil, camphorated oil, even coal oil.

I am told I was out of my head. One of my uncles left a bottle of dark rum, heavy kind, on the step. My grandfather had to look after me and grandma, who had caught the flu from me. Pa was afraid because grandfather couldn't even make a cup of tea. Being from the old country he sure cured both of us, Grandma in three days and weeks later for me.

Here's the cure. Laugh if you like but it did the trick. He put camphorated oil in goose grease, heated it and rubbed our chest. Then he mixed up mustard and put the oil and goose grease in it between two sheets of red flannel. My chest was red for awhile; it sure was hot. Here's what he gave us for medicine. He took heavy old-fashioned molasses and put the rum in it. He put some in a cup of hot water and it really made me sweat.

Today all these old-fashioned remedies are laughed at, but it worked. I'm still around. My grandparents died when they were over 70. The old boy knew his onions, even though he couldn't boil water. What I'd like to know is what was in the dark molasses and dark heavy rum? Was it a case of get better or die? It sure was hard to take after you got on the mend.

Dear Reader — Thanks for giving us a colorful picture of the flu more than 50 years ago. From the volume of letters I have received from people who lived through the first worldwide flu epidemic it seems the treatment you described was pretty standard, with emphasis on rum and whiskey.

Alcohol is still used in the treatment of colds and flu by many people as a home remedy. It may be a sedative and help people to feel better in that sense but it does nothing to combat the virus infection causing the illness.

The only way to treat the flu properly is to prevent it and we can do this today even though that was impossible with the epidemic you survived. That is why vaccinations are so important.

Some of the other medicines may help shrink the nasal lining and make breathing easier. Supportive care in terms of adequate fluids and nourishment is the best that can be offered. The rest of the treatment is for complications. Bacterial complications, such as some pneumonias, can be treated and that will help a lot if there is a worldwide epidemic. (NEA)

W. K. finds his place in war film

By JEFF SAMPSON

HOLLYWOOD — The Solomon Islands, World War II: a peach-fuzzed young Marine pilot turns his countryboy green eyes to the sky, as he is shocked out of a playful fight by the riveting of enemy machine guns. Instinctively, he grabs his cap and scrambles for shelter, completely forgetting that a moment before he was trading blows with a fellow officer. The frightened Marine is Lt. Larry Casey — one of Major "Pappy" Boyington's men, whose exploits will be dramatically re-enacted every week this season on NBC-TV's Baa Baa Black Sheep, starring Robert Conrad.

W. K. Stratton portrays Casey. In his khaki costume, with his blond hair cropped to a modern interpretation of an old regulation cut, he is the quintessence of the boy-man soldier. Ironically, the sense of adventure that turns a young man toward soldiering is what turned Stratton toward acting.

W. K. was born in the rural town of Front Royal, Va., at the top of the Shenandoah Valley. For his first 15 years, he didn't even think about acting. He contemplated the prospect of taking over his father's wholesale plumbing and heating business. In high school, he became a rebel: quitting sports and studies for the beer-and-brawl crowd. At 16, when he was threatened with expulsion from school, his parents' divorce provided him the opportunity to accompany his mother to Fredericksburg and finish school.

While at his new high school, W. K. was asked if he wouldn't mind "carrying a spear" in a play at a nearby school. Since the nearby school was solely populated by three to four thousand girls, W. K. suddenly felt the thespic urge and a possible outlet for his lust for new adventure.

During a brief attendance at college, he recalls, "...I was doing a play and a girl in the audience told me I ought to go to acting school." The school W. K. chose was the American Academy of the Dramatic Arts in New York, where he spent two years. "I was very bad — very tense. After first scene, my teacher told me, 'We had a guy like you last year at this school. He wasn't invited back.' Crush! But I kept on and they kept knocking the hokey-pokey stuff out of me."

During that time, W. K. worked at various odd-jobs, from selling cigars, cigarettes and newspapers in hotel lobbies to cutting patterns and material. The country boy lived in the big city's finest slums. He saw the film "Midnight Cowboy" and was so depressed he almost left New York.

After two years at the Academy, Stratton "hit the streets." He joined Joseph Papp's Shakespeare Festival, did five U.S. Army training films, six months in a soap opera, and a bicentennial special for CBS-TV. Then he packed up and went to Los Angeles. Before long, W. K. was playing soldier and taking boxing lessons from Robert Conrad.

Rocking back in his director's chair, his Browning Sportsman's hat tilted back on his head, Stratton is relaxed as he awaits the next scene. He enjoys his role in the show, and his camaraderie with fellow cast members.

W. K. Stratton

Lt. Casey and W. K. are perfectly matched. Both seem a bit naive, and both are attracted by a feeling of larceny and a chance to be a rowdy. Both are excited by the chance for adventure.

One might also assume that certain relations in the Black Sheep in their Virginia are quite proud of family.

Bad blood

Why aren't there any TV series about Indians? Why don't they use Indians in commercials? Why don't they use Indians in movies instead of white people? — Annette Sinclair, Blackfoot Indian Reservation, Browning, Mont.

You have asked a very good question. Mostly because producers think of Indians in terms of westerns. Since westerns are no longer popular, there are fewer roles for Indians. Some efforts have been made. The very fine film about Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce, I Will Fight No More Forever, will be repeated on ABC-TV shortly. Nakia, which starred Robert Forster, was about an Indian lawman in present times. Efforts are made to have Indians play Indians when it's possible in films and occasionally in a commercial. But there is a shortage of trained Indian actors. Incidentally, some old-time actors with Indian names are not Indians. I won't reveal who they are, since they have been around for a long time. Jay Silverheels, who played Tonto on the Lone Ranger, is a full-blooded Indian. Randolph Mantooth of Emergency! is part-Indian.

Blue boy

I have a bet with my husband about who played Blue on High Chaparral. He says it was Jon Voight and I say it wasn't. — M. Z., Lincolnwood, Ill.

You win. Blue was played by Mark Slade.

The television listings printed by The Sedalia Democrat-Capital are furnished by television stations in advance of publication. Last-minute changes in scheduling, therefore, may not be shown. The absence of an individual channel's listings indicates failure by the station to furnish a schedule.

Some brass

When and where was Herb Alpert of the Tijuana Brass born? Why aren't they on TV? — A Virginia Beach, Vir., Fan.

Herb was born in Los Angeles in 1935. He has just reactivated The Brass after a performing hiatus of several years. I agree with you; they should be on TV. However, until Herb gets a big record hit you probably won't see him. That's the way the business is.

Hornet's sting

Who played the Green Hornet? — A Fan, Chicago. Van Williams played that role. And the late Bruce Lee played Cato.

We feel sure that most car owners are aware of the importance of preventative maintenance as far as their cars are concerned. A tune-up... a check-up... body repair when the rust first sets in will pay big dividends in the long run. A car is a comparatively large investment. It's well to protect it.
